SUPERVISORS PROPOSE $30,000 BOND ISSUE TO FIX BUILDINGS

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors proposed today to spend $30,000 to repair the courthouse and other office buildings.

This money would be raised by a bond issue.

The regulations provide that the bonds will be issued without an election unless 20 per cent of the voters object. Johnson Shaw, president of the board, urged that the people express their views to the board.

"We want to hear what they think," he said. "We don't want to do anything the people don't want us to do."

But he pointed out that the last session of the grand jury urged that the repairs be made, especially to the county jail which it condemned.

In his statement, Shaw said:

"In order that the voters of the county may be apprised of our position in the matter, we wish to advise them that this action was taken as a result of a mandate of the Grand Jury that he repairs be made to the courthouse. At the same time, we thought it advisable to make the necessary repairs to the office buildings of the County, and to enlarge and expand same.

"It is not our purpose to in any way try and influence the voters of this County in this matter. We have done what we thought was our duty, pursuant to the orders of the Grand Jury, and likewise in conformity with what we believe was sound business judgment. However, we respectfully urge and request any qualified elector who is not in full accord with our actions in this matter, to file his protest against same and we definitely assure each and every one that full consideration will be given to such objection or objections.

"We respectfully request the cooperation of all of the citizens of the County in each and every action performed by us, and sincerely hope that if you believe that an election should be had in this matter, please do not hesitate to voice your opinion by filing your objection to the issuance of the bonds mentioned herein."

Heroic Bay St. Louis Man Rips Clothing From Flaming Mother After Gas Explosion

A heroic rescue by her son saved a Bay St. Louis woman's life this week, but she nevertheless is suffering from serious burns at a Laurel hospital.

The fire broke out on Ulman Ave., across the street from Benedetto's Radio and TV Service. Mrs. Martha Favre thought she noticed it in a small home in which she had lived.

She recently moved to another house just a few feet away.

She went out to investigate, and made the serious mistake of lighting a match so she could see better. As she opened the door, a flash of fire hit her full force.

Her son, Evan, heard the disturbance and came rushing. He beat at the flames with his bare hands. He pulled pieces of fiery dress from her body.

Mrs. Favre was then rushed to King's Daughters Hospital. She was swathed in bandages from almost head to toe. Her head was so bandaged that only her lips showed, and they, too, bore ghastly evidence of the explosion fire. Her heroic son also was burned, but not nearly as bad as his mother. His hands and neck were especially burned.

Mrs. Favre was transferred from King's Daughters to a hospital in Laurel.

The fire, which occurred about 8 p. m. Tuesday night, was put out by firemen and volunteers.

The latest report on Mrs. Favre was that she was moved to the Jackson General Hospital in Jackson, Miss.

Her condition has not improved. She has severe burns on her hands, arms, shoulders and face. Her son, Evan, who rescued her, was taken to the hospital, when his burns also proved to be serious.

Tryouts Sunday

Tryouts for the first Little Theatre play of the season will be held Sunday, February 7, at the Boardman Avenue Bay-Waveland Little Theatre building. It was announced by Mrs. C. D. Blair, director of the production.

CLERMONT HARBOR RESIDENT SIGNED TO DOUBLE FOR JERRY LEWIS

Robert Brown, who is known to the circus world as "Bones" and who now resides in Clermont Harbor received a telephone call the other night from Hollywood, California. That call meant $400 a week for Bill Greenwald offered Mr. Brown a job to double for Jerry Lewis, the comedian, in his new picture, which deals with circus life.

This sort of work is not new to Robert Brown, who, while working for Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus, was signed to double for Jimmy Stewart in the Academy Award winning picture, "The Greatest Show on Earth." Since then Brown has quit the whirl of performances to settle down and stay home with his family. At present he is employed by the Chrysler plant in Midland.

How did Robert Brown, a clown on the trapeze for the greatest show on earth get his start? When he was 15 years old, 6 feet tall and weighed 90 pounds, Pop Le Van, a well-known personality in the circus world, trained Brown and tagged him with the nickname of "Bones," due to his lanky but agile frame. From that day on he spent his life under the big top performing before thousands and thousands of people.

In 1935 while playing Ponchar-train Beach as part of the Flying Le Vans, he met Mable Ochman, who is now Mrs. Robert Brown and the mother of their three children, Cynthia, who attends St. Joseph Academy in Bay St. Louis, Bobby and Patricia.

When asked how she felt when her husband performed in the circus Mrs. Brown simply said that "She was scared," which would be the natural feeling of any wife watching her husband flying in midair 40 feet above the ground. Yet through his years in the flying act, "Bones" has had only two bad falls. The first occurred in 1937, when he missed the catcher's hands and fell 36 feet into the net. He broke three ribs and fractured his jaw. But in true tradition of the show business, after a hasty wiring job on his jaw, he was in the lineup for the show the following night.

The second accident happened in December, 1950. Mrs. Brown hadn't heard from her husband for two weeks, so she decided to phone Robert and see how he was doing. In this conversation she found out that he was having $1200.00 worth of plastic surgery done on his face.

While the circus was playing Madison Square Garden, Bones missed the bar and it came crashing into his face, crushing all the bones on one side of his face. Even after this accident he answered an SOS which came from one of his side rings. One of the girls was too sick to go on so Bones put on some makeup over his injured face got into his costume and went out to do the show. The next day the doctors said he was crazy. It took six weeks of operations to renew his face.

What makes a guy perform 40 feet above ground even when his bones are broken? Mr. Brown said, "It is like nothing else in the world. You have no stars dressing rooms, in fact you have no dressing rooms at all. When you are playing one night stands, you stay in a tent. When it rains the water creeps under the tent and you walk around in hip boots. Nobody gets better food because he is a big shot. The first one in line in the chow tent is the first guy served. Nobody's mister and everybody's your friend." And he added that "You always go on with the show. You have to be dead, or three-quarters dead, before you say you won't go on."

Mr. Brown will leave for Hollywood this weekend. So when you go to the show and see one of the pictures he doubled in, look for "Bones," a true performer of the circus world.

JUVENILE JUDGE—Judge Nellus C. Rhodes was appointed judge for Hancock County this week by Judge D. M. Russell.

With Judge Rhodes above is Patricia Corley, welfare agent for the county, as they are looking over some official papers for the court.

Rhodes Appointed

Juvenile Judge

D. M. Russell announced the appointment of Judge Nellus C. Rhodes to the office of juvenile judge for Hancock County. Judge Rhodes will succeed John Scaife, who resigned the position, because of illness.

Russell stated making the appointment he "considers Judge Rhodes a fine and capable man to make a good and capable juvenile judge."

Further stated, "Judge Rhodes is highly recommended to me for appointment."

He is sorry, he said, that Judge Rhodes could not continue in the position, but that during his time he was very well in the capacity.

Corley, welfare agent, and Judge Rhodes will work together to help all the children of the county who need a judge.

Industrial Group

To Be Picked

At Meeting Today

A Hancock County Industrial Committee will be appointed at a general meeting called for 9:30 a. m. at the Courthouse today.

The meeting is the outgrowth of two previous sessions called by Johnson Shaw, president of the Board of Supervisors, in the interest of inducing industry to Hancock County.

The first step was a general discussion. This produced the suggestion that a representative of the Mississippi Balance-Agriculture-with-Industry board be invited to Bay St. Louis.

The second step was this representative's talk. He explained the work necessary to lure industry to a community.

Today's meeting is the third step. It involves selecting a committee which will be charged with the job of contacting industrialists who may be considering a move to the general area. The committee must operate in competition with other Mississippi cities seeking the same industry.

Representatives of all Hancock County organizations have been invited to attend today's session but official delegation is not necessary. Any citizen may attend and speak at the public forum. Persons objecting to industrialization of the area also have been urged to attend to present their side of the story.

—Laura Smith, 16-year-old resident of State St., is in Kings Daughters Hospital this week, suffering from a fracture.

S. J. A. Defeats Pass High, 52-39

St. Joseph Academy girls defeated Pass High, in the second game of a tripeheader held Tuesday at S. S. C. gym, 52-39.

This game was delayed for a half hour because the referee did not show up, and a substitute was needed.

Going into the last quarter the Gold Jays and the Pass quintet were tied, but through the accurate shooting from both the field and foul line St. Joseph drew off to a comfortable lead, and had a 13 point margin when the final whistle blew.

De De Olavareta lead the scoring parade for the victors with 24 points, she was followed by Janet Genin with 15. For the visitors R. Linely was high scorer with 27 points.

Both of these girls teams will play in the sub-district tournament at the Pass this weekend.

Boy Scout Week will be observed nationally Feb. 7 to 13.

The Boy Scouts of America is operated by 860,000 adult volunteer leaders, many of who are the country's best sportsmen, who give their best in the service of youth, with the help and assistance of a small professional group. Because of them more than 2,440,000 boys today enjoy the "Game of Scouting."

As outdoorsmen the Scouts contribute a great deal to the conservation of game and wildlife.

Forty-four game law violators paid a total of $700 in fines from Jan. 20 through Jan. 27, according to Wade Creekmore, Director of Conservation.

Boys and girls competing for the title of Mississippi's outstanding young conservationist must have their applications in by Feb. 8, according to Wade Creekmore, chairman of the Governor's committee appointed to administer the program in Mississippi.

Application forms may be secured from Mr. A. P. Fatherree, secretary, Box 771, Jackson.

Entrants will be judged on the quality of specific achievements in conservation activities, on leadership, and on ability to relate these accomplishments favorably to others. Those selected will be eligible to attend the statewide meeting in Jackson on Feb. 13.

Remember Feb. 10 is the last day for hunting quail. Better get that trip in by then or oil the old gun and put it away.

"Kaiser" Schaffer says his feet are itching to get out in the Bay after flounders. Will report on this later.

Reports of good green trout fishing are coming in from around Mulatta Bayou - several good catches have been made during the past two weeks.

Ted Reboul, on Jordan River, has been making good catches lately - the water is clearing fast, said Ted.

Will there elect from their own number a representative to the National Conference of Young Outdoor Americans in Chicago, Mar. 10, 11 and 12.

Expenses to the conference in Chicago will be paid by the Izaak Walton League of America.

Dave Ladner, bridge tender on the Highway bridge, says that the fish are beginning to bite fairly well along the bridge at this time.

Russ Elliott of Bayou Caddy Fishing Camp states that fishing should get better right along in that area. He is busy preparing for the coming season.

Buyers' Mart

Twenty cents will get you a carton of high grade raw milk and this will buy you a carton of our home-made cream cheese. The heart of the cream style is that's only part of the story. A fraction of the effort that goes into the products of the Carven Colliers, who operate a dairy.

Three in the morning, Alden and his father are up and on their way to Dunbar Avenue, the family's 18 head of Jersey Guernsey cattle are waiting to be milked.

On this operation is complete. Men bring the milk home, bottled and then delivered to customers, who, in the summer, remember so many the family pressed to keep up the milk and cream cheese. No cream and the like be the Colliers want to deliver and in order to have real cream cheese, Miss Thelma maintains that all the cream has to be saved to pour the little pats of clabbered which makes the cheese.

Colliers' base of operations is a small, spotless building in the yard of their home on Carven. There are the coolers and shining pans for milk and stacks of small perambulators used for the cream in the winter months, when it is so easy to make the milk, the Colliers dispense the cream from the refrigerator. Thelma's roomy kitchen, with its starched blue and white and every evidence that a cook reigns there.

In the summer time, when the easier to make, the customers are so plentiful, the family ask them to put in order. Colliers have been in this for 30 years. And their son is of the same sparkling as their surroundings.

Far away as Florida, travel by to purchase their and especially their cheese. They learned to expect a lot about how famous their are in these parts.

It of work goes into this," says Alden Collier. "I've it long enough to know, people hear about it."

BEA SMITH

BEA SMITH JOURNEYS TO EUROPE IN INTEREST OF ART

Miss Bea Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Smith, is a self-styled and self-educated artist.

Miss Smith gained her inspiration to paint from her sister, Elsie, who was a finished artist. After having decided to enter this profession she chose portrait painting as the phase of art she would practice.

During the short course of her career to this date, Miss Smith has painted portraits for many well known personalities on the Gulf Coast. Included in this are Bidwell Adams, Leo Seal, Dr. Bedford Floyd, Hugh Jones, Mrs. Roy Staten, Princess Fahey, T. T. Robin, John McDonald, Mrs. Merle Morlan, Bishop Bowers, C. A. Spurl, Ed Palmer, Walter Gex, Guy Billups, Dr. Eddy, who is head surgeon at the hospital in Shreveport, Dr. Battalora, John Bell, Mr. Shelby Tucker and Mr. Haydon Gardner.

Her first portrait brought raves from many critics, who could not believe that Miss Smith had never studied a lesson on art in her life. They all agreed that her proportions in the paintings were outstanding for someone who had never studied.

Miss Smith attended the Allisons-Well's colony near Jackson, Miss. This colony dealt mostly with public criticism on the works of the artist gathered there. One of the critics Mr. Wells, who is art director for the University of Tennessee, stated that Miss Smith with a lot of hard work, could someday be famous for her portraits.

Miss Smith will journey to Europe this spring in the interest of art and to develop her ideas more thoroughly. She said, "With hard work, study, and concentration on her painting this trip will benefit her very much in her future work."

When asked what points were the features that art critics looked for most in a portrait, she said, "Composition, color, harmony of color, brush strokes and proportions were the most important features in a portrait."

Miss Smith hopes to have an exhibit when she returns from Europe, displaying the works she will paint during her stay on the continent.

In our talk with Miss Smith

one of the amusing topics was the painting of her mother's picture. The picture itself is very good, but the amusing part in the painting of the picture Miss Smith stated "Was the fact that I had to change the dress in the picture four times before both my mother and I were satisfied."

All her customers agree that Miss Smith's portraits are priceless and lifelong additions to their homes, and that they and the generations in their family yet to come will always cherish these reproductions of someone dear.

THE COMMUTER PROBLEM

The Commuter Problem

With some militant support from city officials, a small group in this area is fighting a big battle. It is for decent commuter service to New Orleans.

This is a problem which strikes at the very heart of Gulf Coast economy—and a problem upon which the area can rise or fall.

No one, in this enlightened time, likes to make blanket accusations against the so-called "big interests." But the fact remains that the L & N Railroad has a monopoly and is not operating that monopoly in the interests of the area.

Railroads have had tough financial sledding, especially during the depression. But during the war and the post-war boom they pulled out to a well of hopelessness. Yet they continue to slash services where services are most needed.

The L & N is happy to ship goods to New York, because there are many alternate ways to ship freight—and the railroad must fight like any other competitive business. But there aren't many ways you can commute, and so the railroad does little or nothing to aid the monopoly-bound commuter.

This is a short-sighted view. For the railroad itself would be the first to admit that its success depends upon the success of the area it serves.

Yet trains are lopped off after fares are raised to take care of increased expenses. Crack trains speed by, unwilling to stop to pick up Bay St. Louis customers. In other words, this area gets only minimum service.

But the fight can be won by men like Cyril Glover and the officers of the Gulf Coast Commuters Association if they have support. When the local hearing with L & N officials comes off, it's up to the citizens of the area to turn out in a mass.

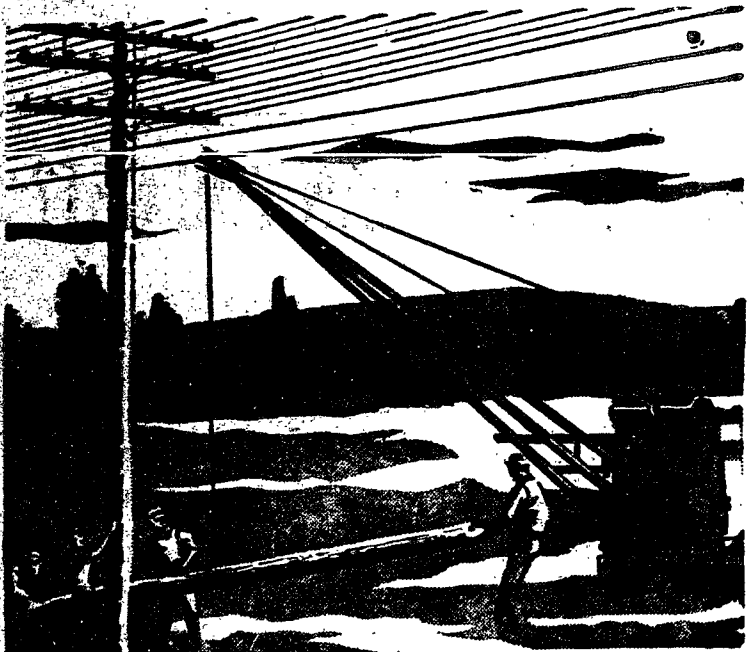

The topic of discussion will be your pocketbook.

Your School

Nothing is more important than YOUR schools, because they affect YOUR children.

There have been sweeping reorganizations in the Mississippi school system. Yet few understand them. Starting next week, the Sea Coast Echo—in conjunction with Hancock County educators—will start a series of articles explaining the new school setup.

Read them carefully. YOUR taxes pay the bill. YOUR children reap the rewards.

GROWING WITH MISSISSIPPI

Telephone Growth in Last 8 Years
Greatest of Our 72 Years in the State

Since 1945, we've been engaged in the greatest program of telephone expansion and improvement of our more than 72 years in Mississippi. In those eight years, we have increased the overall number of telephones in the State from 115,876 to approximately 260,000, or about 124%. At the same time, the number of telephones serving rural homes and businesses has climbed from 8,335 to over 40,000, or up—about 380%!

It's this continual growth in the number of people you can call and who can call you that makes your telephone more valuable to you day-by-day.

Thirteen entirely new central offices were among the 50 new buildings or additions to existing buildings constructed since 1945 in Mississippi in order to add all those new telephones.

To get investors to supply the money to continue expanding and improving Mississippi's telephone service requires a fair profit on the money invested in telephone equipment.

How Can I...

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I present brass articles from discoloring?

A. Brass is inclined to lose its polish rather easily. Clean it very thoroughly, removing every particle of grease and stain. Then paint over with a coat of clear copal varnish, applying very smoothly with a fine soft brush. When dry, the brass will look just the same, but will withstand dampness and will not discolor.

Q. How can I clean gold or silver lace?

A. Brush over the gold or silver lace with alcohol. If it is removable, it may be cleaned by boiling in salt water. Use two tablespoons of salt to one pint of water.

Q. How can I preserve paint that has been left over?

A. Pouring plain paraffin over paint left in the can will preserve it and prevent it from hardening.

Q. How can I remove a corn very easily?

A. It is claimed that a corn can be loosened by binding a piece of lemon around it, changing the application daily for about three or four days. Then soak the corn in warm water and it can be removed very easily.

Q. How can I make the meats of nuts come out whole?

A. Soak nuts, which are to be cracked, in salt water over night, and this will cause the meats to come out whole.

Q. What is the best way to wash rice?

A. The easiest way is to place it in a sieve and let the cold water continue to run through until it comes through clear and free starch. Rice should always be washed before using.

Q. How can I retain the softness of chamomile skin?

A. Make a habit of washing the chamomile after each time used in warm water to which a pinch of soda has been added.

Q. How can I remove a shabby or shiny serge skirt?

A. Sponge it with boiling hot vinegar until the stains and grease marks disappear. Then thorough-

YOUR ARE THE DETECTIVE

"Dear Alice: This is my last letter to you. I'm tired of running from Herb Thomas. He's caught up with me in this town, and very soon now I'd be dead. But before I go I want you to know that..."

After reading this typewritten note which you found on the desk under the dead man's right hand, you gaze down at Sam Harrison's body slumped over in the chair, his head resting on the desk beside the typewriter, an up-set pin-tray lying nearby on the desk with a mixture of pins, paper clips, rubber bands, and a half-consumed cigarette scattered about.

"Right through the heart," you remark as you inspect the bullet wound. "He died instantly."

"Isn't it too horrible?" exclaims the landlady, who is hovering behind you and who phoned the news of the murder to you. "He didn't even have time to finish his letter. I was down in my sitting room and I could hear the tapping of his typewriter, when suddenly—the shot rang out. I was too frightened to move for a minute, then I rushed upstairs, saw him here, then phoned you immediately."

"What do you know about Harrison?" you ask.

"Not too much. Only that he seemed a man of good habits, very clean and orderly about his room. Didn't drink or smoke. He came and went very quickly—never much to say. He's a month behind on his rent, but told me this morning he would take care of it shortly."

"Do you happen to know anyone by the name of Herb Thomas, mentioned in this note?"

"No, Mr. Harrison never had any visitors," he answers, then hesitates. "Say, I think that was the name of the man who telephoned yesterday while Mr. Harrison was out. I think I still have his phone number somewhere here."

"I'd like to talk with Thomas," you state, "but I don't think he's the murderer."

"Why don't you think Herb Thomas is the guilty man?"

SOLUTION

He found it. You think the murderer wrote the note in an attempt to press on the wrong side with a fairly hot iron. For spots on blue serge, rub with a cloth wrung out of coffee.

Cotton Acreage

Allotments Available

An owner or operator of a farm for which a cotton acreage allotment has not been established for 1954 may file an application for such a cotton allotment under certain conditions, Fitzhugh Lee, Chairman of the Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

All such applications will receive careful consideration, the chairman explained, but to be eligible for the allotment, the owner or operator in such a case must meet the following conditions: He must depend on his farm operations for a livelihood, he must not have any other farm which already has a cotton allotment, and he must not have any other farm which already has a cotton allotment, and he must have on file in the county ASC office a similar application for a cotton allotment on any other farm in the county which he owns or operates.

Applications for such "new" cotton acreage allotments must be filed in the county ASC office not later than Feb. 28, Mr. Lee said.

Crosby Promoting

Soybean Raising in Pearl River

Twenty men of Pearl River County were guests of L. O. Crosby, Jr., in Poyayune, to formulate plans to interest the rural youth in raising soybeans.

Mr. Crosby stated that 5,000 bushels of soybean seed with a high oil content have been purchased and 10,000 bushels more will be purchased soon. Crosby wants to put the thousands of idle acres to work raising soybeans, thus giving the farmers another cash crop.

Litterbug Drive

Starts Here

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club will sponsor a cleanup campaign in this area for the next two weeks in an effort to beautify the two towns prior to the Gulf Coast garden pilgrimage.

In an announcement made this week by Mrs. J. W. Hill, chairman of the campaign, she pointed out that more than 300 visitors from all parts of the country visited Bay St. Louis and Waveland last year. A program to provide these visitors with scenic beauty throughout the area will get underway this week.

"Don't be a litterbug" will be the slogan of the cleanup drive, Mrs. Hill explained. Litterbug stickers will be given to motorists.

The chairman will contact school children throughout the city, enlisting their aid in the project. An appeal will be made to collectors of garbage to cooperate in the drive. Each merchant will be provided with campaign posters and asked to beautify his premises as much as possible. An appeal will be made to housewives to put tight covers on garbage pails and to burn as much trash as is safe to burn.

Mrs. Hill has written letters to the New Orleans papers, asking that they publish requests to the Louisiana visitors to the coast not to litter vacation spots.

"This situation is deplorable," Mrs. Hill said. "Some visitors seem to just pick a spot and dump their garbage as they leave the coast."

The campaign is to close on Feb. 15 with a proposed subscription luncheon and parade. Reservations for the luncheon may be made by calling Mrs. Hill at 169.

"We hope to have the immaculate as we welcome homes for these visitors," urged.

There's Gas IN YOUR FUTURE, little shaver...

There's lots of natural gas in the Gulf South—not just to provide hot water for your shaves of the future, but to heat your home, dry your clothes, cook your meals. Gas is clean, convenient, dependable. Gas never lets you down.

The search for additional gas reserves goes on and on. Gas and oil producers invest millions of dollars every year in exploration and drilling activities—so there will be adequate supplies of gas for all who need it. The production end of the gas industry is a keenly competitive business which has been free of needless regulation by government bodies... one in which initiative and hard work have paid off. Let's keep it that way, and be sure of gas for the future.

Think of all the wonderful ways natural gas serves you, and we think you'll agree it's worth every cent you pay for it... and then some!

County Agent Notes

By ANNE ORLEANS
HOME GARDENING

February is a big month in spring gardening. Here are some jobs that should be done this month:

Plant tomato, pepper and eggplant seed in hotbeds. Cut Irish potato seed pieces the size of an egg — plant them this month. Check the garden, fruit and flower guide, obtainable at the county agents office, for vegetables to plant this month.

Side-dress with nitrate winter vegetables now growing in the garden. Plant low growing vegetables in double rows. Apply fertilizer to the asparagus bed. Thin January planting vegetables. Prepare rows for March planting. Work some "life" into packy soil. Watch out for early garden pests.

Keep a garden record this year and you will be surprised at the value you receive from a good home garden.

SHEEP

The ninth Mississippi Sheep Producers Association field day and meeting will be held at Mississippi State College Feb. 9.

Patricia and Barrow.

Miss Michelle Coiron, two weeks old this past Wednesday, arrived in New Orleans January 20. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Coiron, also have a small son, three year old George Coiron Jr. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Charbonnet, Mrs. Coiron's father and mother, who had taken an apartment in New Orleans while awaiting Michelle's arrival, are back at their cottage in Lakeshore.

To be held in the new Animal Husbandry Service Building, the field day will include judging contests, demonstrations on docking, shearing, castrating, spraying, trimming feet and drenching.

A demonstration of cutting lamb carcasses and discussion on "Why Eat Lamb," will be conducted by J. B. Francioni, head, animal husbandry department Louisiana State University. H. E. Axon of the wool department, Swift and Company, Chicago, will discuss handling and marketing wool.

Let your county agent know if you plan to attend.

FEBRUARY PASTURE JOBS
Make a good pasture plan and plan to keep a 50-50 ratio of grass and clovers to aid in bloat control.

Make plans to have a good summer pasture of Dallis, lespedeza and Bermuda. Remember, on an average, it will take three times as much acreage for summer pastures as for spring pastures.

Make plans to have a feed program of hay, grain and silage to help out when pastures are short. Apply phosphate and potash to clover-legumes areas that have not been fertilized.

Keep livestock off winter grazing areas until well established. Use pasture research information as a tool for better pastures.

DAIRY
No milk producing animal will use its feed to produce efficiently unless it has an ample supply of fresh clean water. This water does not need to be warmed, but it does need to be readily available.

Watering only once or twice a day is not enough for profitable production. A dairy cow will drink 10 to 20 times a day and will need from five to 30 gallons of water.

Lack of water may make a dairy cow go off feed. Once this happens, it will take some time to get them back and that means a loss in milk production.

The girls and boys of all schools are going to have a 4-H Club rally March 26. Our club is responsible to give a gift of some sort to the club. Our next meeting will be March 1.

The Silver Lining

Not in recent years were there so many prognosticators trying to penetrate the cloudy future as were in articulation at the turn of the year.

And there were more crepehangers and calamity-howlers than usual, which could be expected in a year in which we will encounter increased political static. In one breath a number of forecasters said we were on the threshold of what promised to be the second most prosperous year in the country's history and at the same time were threatened with a mild recession.

Business has always had its periodic ups and downs and, despite a money-managed economy, we can expect the future to continue to be influenced by the weather, mass psychology, the financial and political behavior of men and women, and the activities of the disturbers of world peace.

Pharoach in Egypt learned from Joseph, an interpreter of dreams, that come what may we would always have the fat years and the lean years, and that in the long run mother nature would triumph. Natural laws cannot be repealed.

But through thick and thin, it is our long banking experience that those who spend less than they earn, pay their bills and debts promptly and save money, usually come out on top, for they frtify themselves against financial reverses and business famines.

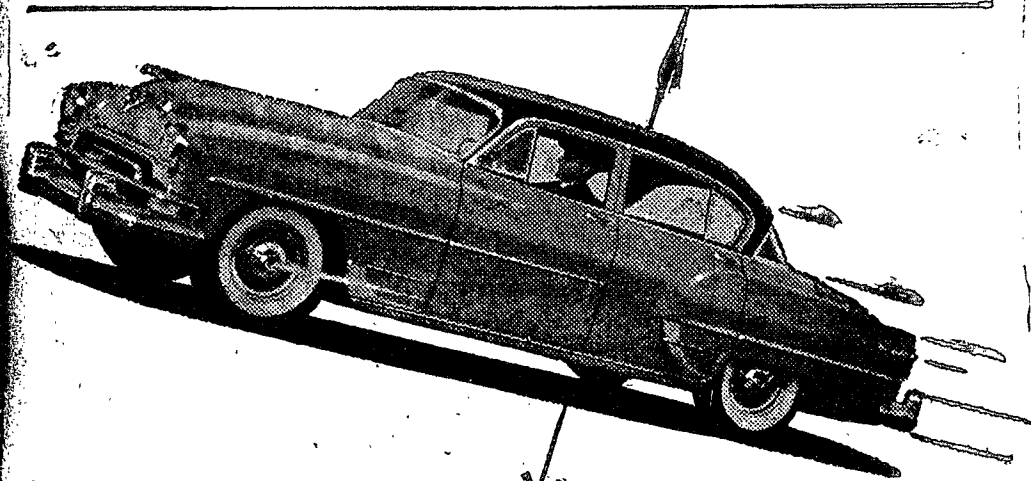

The future is always bright to those who can see the silver linings of the gathering clouds. There are the optimistic ones who see a challenge in every economic thunder-storm and an opportunity in every financial aquall.

And this is no "whistling-in-the-dark" philosophy. The experiences of thousands who have followed the stepping stones that lead to financial security know they would not have gone far in a pessimistic frame of mind.

Every cloud has a silver lining. The dawn of every new day and New Year is an exciting experience and a radiant promise to believers in the formula of work and thrift.

So to those of faith and zeal, industry and economy, 1954 is another golden opportunity.

Power Company Employee Cited

Wesley N. Watts, Mississippi Power Company, lineman, has been presented the Edison Electric Institute medal for saving the life of a fellow employee through the use of artificial respiration. The medal was presented by S. L. Muths, vice president and general manager of the Company, at a meeting of Gulf Coast Division employees. Others who received awards for participating in the rescue were B. R. Burrill, who received a miniature medal and M. L. Castello; Jake Shaw, and K. C. Vick, foreman of the crew, who received certificates.

Mr. Muths reviewed the accident, briefly, stating that when a fellow employee contacted a live wire, while working on a pole, at Long Beach, M. L. Castello, his groundman pulled him free by use of a hand line. The injured employee was unconscious and lying in his safety belt when he was reached by Watts who had been working on another pole. Watts immediately began applying the Pole Top Method of artificial respiration and in approximately two or three minutes the injured employee began to breathe again.

Burrill, in the meantime, had climbed the pole, cleared the live wire to eliminate danger of another contact, and assisted Watts. Shay also climbed the pole and the three removed the injured man from the pole continuing the use of Pole Top resuscitation on the way down. After they reached the ground the prone pressure method of artificial respiration was used to aid the man who by this time was unconscious but still having trouble breathing. The injured employee was then taken to the hospital. Although severely burned on the arm and leg, this man has recovered and has been back at work for some time.

In presenting the award Mr. Muths said, "Although we are

Carnival Ball And Luncheon At Yacht Club

Coming social events at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, including a gumbo luncheon and carnival ball were announced this week by Mrs. Ernest Allgeyer of the yacht club auxiliary and B. F. Farrelly, manager of the club.

Monday, March 1, is the date of the carnival ball to be given by the club for senior members. Farrelly said. This will be a costume affair. Music will be furnished by the George Kramer band.

Mrs. Allgeyer reminded interested parties that the monthly luncheons at the club are open to the public, but it necessary to make reservations for the Wednesday events by Tuesday.

This month's gumbo luncheon reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Allgeyer, the club or co-hostesses, Mrs. N. L. Carter, Mrs. E. N. Spence, Mrs. Ed Carrere, Mrs. Horace Kergosien or Mrs. W. Carter. The cost is $1.25 per person.

Mrs. Allgeyer also announced that the planned buffet dinner and dance for this coming Saturday, Feb. 6, has been postponed, due to the illness of Mrs. Charles Lozano, president of the yacht club auxiliary.

Yacht Club Work Nears Completion

B. F. Farrelly, manager of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club announced this week that the construction work being done on the club's grounds is near completion. This includes the Yacht Club harbor, the pier and pens for the boats.

Mr. Farrelly said, "this will give additional space for those desiring

Stanleys Fored Following Marriage

Following their marriage in Bay St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Stanley, of New Orleans, were guests of honor at a reception given at the home of Mrs. Rae Cope in Clermont Harbor.

Assisting in receiving were Mrs. Agnew Orr, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. E. Stanley of New Orleans, mother of the groom.

The reception rooms were lighted by a quantity of tall pink tapers. Camellias encircled the tiered wedding cake, which between branched candlesticks, centered the bride's table; the bouffant tulle over satin skirt with satin bows, front and sides with satin bows, camellias and valley lilies.

Entwining the five-branched crystal prism candelabra in the center of the lace covered buffet table, were valley lilies, camellias and tulle.

The bride, former Mrs. Jeanie Kern, wore a Dior blue suit, black accessories and a seed, pearl encrusted mauve pink hat. She wore a white orchid with mauve-purple throat. Her attendant Mrs. Frank Trapani, wore a beige suit, with brown accessories; her brown hat having a tracery of bronze heads. Her shoulder corsage was of Golwharfing privileges. The flower beds are ready for planting, and this phase of the beautification will be completed by the end of the month."
